Negro Testimony.

Remarks of R. Y. McAden, Esq., in the House of Commons, on the 21st of February, on the motion to indefinitely postpone the bill allowing free persons of color to testify in courts of justice.

MR. SPEAKER:—It was not my purpose to address the House to-day on this bill, but fearing it may be the pleasure of the House to postpone the bill and thereby preclude further discussion, I desire briefly to state some of the reasons that will control my vote on the bill—as I deem this one of the most important measures that will require our deliberation, perhaps, the most important measure now before us. In my opinion, the action of the Legislature upon this bill, decides whether or not North Carolina accepts fully the reconstruction policy of President Johnson; whether or not she desires the removal of the military government, and the restoration of civil government with its manifold benefits. In discussing the question, whether persons of color in matters wherein they are interested should testify in our courts of justice, I will not take the high ground of moral right, as that has been ably done; neither will I discuss it on the ground of the right being beneficial, either to the negro or to the white race; as I believe, that our laws formerly in our State, as to the status of the free negro, were, perhaps, the best that could be desired for his protection and prosperity, as under these laws he had as many rights as he was capable of appreciating. I shall discuss and act on this question as we have since the surrender of our armies, acted upon other questions of great and vital moment to our people, on the ground of political expediency,—yea political necessity; from circumstances, we are compelled to look at the condition of the country as it is, not as we would have it.

Recognizing this principle, the Convention from the people, which assembled but a few months since, promptly and unanimously abolished slavery in North Carolina. No one in that Convention thought slavery morally wrong, neither did any one think that the abolition of slavery would benefit either the black or white race. Yet slavery was abolished, and two-thirds of the property of the people of the State taken away without just compensation, on the grounds of political expediency, political necessity; the same cause influenced the Convention to repudiate all debts contracted in aid of the revolution. The Legislature met and at the beginning, and with almost unanimity, ratified the Constitutional Amendment forever abolishing slavery. No one will contend that any principle except political necessity influenced the Legislature in this. The Legislature ratified that amendment, because it was a part of the reconstruction policy of President Johnson; because it was the only way to restore North Carolina to civil government; the only way to throw over her the protecting shield of the constitution. Yet, Mr. Speaker, in the face of this, the Legislature hesitates to admit negro testimony, equally a part of President Johnson's policy. When slavery was to be abolished we did not hesitate and discuss it on the grounds of right and wrong; we neither brought the Bible nor Dr. Fuller to prove that slavery was right. We yielded the question on the ground that "might makes right." We have swallowed camel after camel with a gusto; why "strain at the gnat?" Have we approached so near reconstruction that we begin to feel free? Is the political horizon brighter now than then? Is it not darker and the storm more threatening than ever? We find gentlemen who say they are willing to fight it out on this line. The constituents I have the honor to represent are satisfied with fighting it out on any line; they are satisfied with that kind of argument, they prefer a more peaceful mode of settling difficulties; like burnt children they are not disposed to try the fire again so soon. If there is any thing to be gathered from the signs in the political heavens, it is that the clouds are thicker and darker than ever, and that there is more reason than ever, that we should so act as at least not to thicken the political darkness that now envelopes our once prosperous and happy country.

It is urged that the people are not prepared for this great change. I can assure the gentlemen that they under-estimate the intelligence and patriotism of the people; the people are ahead of their representatives; they are not concerned as to what will advance the claims of this man, what will be popular, what issue will elect this man Governor, or that man to Congress, but they are concerned and deeply concerned as to what will bind up the wounds of their bleeding country—what will restore peace and good will among men. I have the honor to represent an intelligent people, intelligent enough to trust their representatives. My people are anxious for restoration, they desire that the day may speedily come when the protecting shield of the constitution and the broad folds of the old flag shall be thrown over them; when they can in truth feel and say they are citizens of the American Union. If a representative on this floor shall fail to discharge his duty in this hour of his country's trial for fear of his popularity, he is unworthy of his constituents; every one should feel prepared, if need be, to sacrifice themselves for the good of the country.

The question is not shall we admit negro testimony, that question is as much decided as was the question of slavery before the action of the Convention. Every one knows that negro testimony is now admitted, and has been ever since the surrender. Is it not a fact that our constituents are continually being arrested and carried before the free negro Bureau and there negro testimony admitted? Is it not a fact that persons all over the State are daily being tried by a military court for the highest of crimes and negro testimony admitted; so the object of the bill is not to admit negro testimony, as every one must know from daily experience that the question is already decided; it is now admitted before a Provost Marshall or military court composed of strangers, unacquainted with the morals or habits of the negro, whose sympathies are all in favor of the negro, and whose predjudices are all against the white race, and whose verdicts so far as I know, have been uniformly against the whites and for the negro. The object of the bill is merely to change the manner of trial; to try our people before our own judges and juries; before courts that are familiar with the character of the negro; know his ignorance and his universal disposition to lie, and consequently are able to adjudge cases correctly according to the law and evidence. If this Legislature is able, and will so legislate as to transfer all these cases from the free negro Bureau to our own civil courts, before our own judges and juries, this Legislature will confer a boon upon the people and entitle itself to the everlasting gratitude of the people. For in my opinion if Thad. Stephens and the devil had plotted together to trample and degrade a people, they could not have devised a better plan than the free negro Bureau as now managed. My morning and evening prayer is from such an iniquity, good Lord deliver me and my people.

Mr. Speaker, I am met here with the objection, that the admission of negro testimony in our courts of justice will do no good. It surely cannot do as much harm as the admission which is the daily course before the military courts. Gen. Ruger, the General in command of the Department of North Carolina, says as soon as we admit the testimony, and make the punishment for crime the same for both races, all the cases will be turned over to our civil courts. Col. Whitelsey, in command of the Freedmen's Bureau, says, in a letter to Judge Buxton; the same thing. Whether or not these gentlemen will comply with their promises, I cannot say. It is, at least, worth a trial; for if our down-trodden people are still to be afflicted with this military tyranny, it will be a source of comfort to know, that as representatives, we come boldly and fully up to our duty, though that duty was against our prejudices; and we can confidently leave the rest to God, who will, in his inscrutable wisdom, work out all things for good. Because our political heavens are shrouded in gloom, and all that we do for civil government and peace seems as naught, it is no excuse for a representative to shrink from his duty. The brave captain, in a tempestuous storm, never deserts his vessel because there is no land in sight. The darker the cloud, the more furious the winds, and the higher the waves rise, the louder his voice is heard commanding all to their posts, and, if need be, he goes bravely down with his vessel. A representative that shrinks from duty, or deserts his post for fear of the political storm, and cries out "No hope," is unworthy of the present crisis.

I am met with the objection, yield this and the next thing will be negro suffrage, &c. The right to testify is a personal right, the right to vote is a political privilege. I for one will never consent to confer upon negroes political privileges. In the North there are two political parties; one led by President Johnson, who asks of us to grant to negroes personal rights but to deny to them political privileges; the other party led by Sumner, Thad. Stephens and Fred. Douglass, (I ask pardon of Fred Douglass for associating him with Sumner and Stephens,) who demand political privileges and political and social equality for the negro race. We are compelled to choose between the two parties. President Johnson has shown himself to be our friend, and I declare here to-day, that I believe in him is our only hope. Is it not manifestly our interest, our duty to comply fully, manfully with his policy, for by so doing we strengthen him and by failing so to do, we weaken him, and strengthen Sumner and Stephens. Should President Johnson succeed we escape negro equality; should Sumner & Co. succeed we have forced on us negro equality and every other indignity their fiendish ingenuity can invent. Is it then not manifestly our duty to accept the policy of President Johnson in admitting negro testimony, if in no other light at least as the choice of evils. Permit me here to say that the South cannot too early learn that in President Johnson she has a firm and true friend; when we look at his course through life, see how bitterly he was once persecuted by our own people, and see how noble and magnanimous he acted when he suddenly became the conqueror of that people, his course presents a spectacle of moral sublimity scarcely ever equalled in the history of the world. When we see him surrounded by fanatics who placed him in power, and who claim him as their President, and see him standing as it were the only barrier to our utter political and social degradation, his acts have the stamp of Godlike firmness and heroism. In the name of all that is sacred, for the sake of the women and children of the land let us manfully stand by; and strengthen and hold up his hands.

Other States have, with almost unanimity, accepted cheerfully the terms of the President. Is North Carolina less loyal to the Union than her other sister States? The past record of North Carolina is one that all of her sons might well be proud of. Before the unfortunate revolution, she was the "truest of the true" to the Union, and how true she was to the Confederacy when she elected to join her fortunes with it, let the bones of her brave sons, that whiten the hundred battle-fields from Big Bethel to Appomattox Court House, testify. Since she is again under the broad folds of the old flag, let her to-day make such a record to restore the Union, to bring the blessings of peace to a distracted country, that generations yet unborn, will rise up and called her blessed.

A Grand Jubilee.

It is understood that President Johnson will in a short time issue his proclamation declaring the war at an end, and the Southern States entitled to all the rights of the Constitution and Union. Along with this or soon after he will issue a general amnesty, with perhaps a few exceptions.

What if he were to declare a universal amnesty, applying it to every citizen of the country, whether at home or in foreign lands,—open the prison doors to all the imprisoned for offences connected with the war?

What if Congress would immediately follow it up with such legislation, as would unite the President and all parties and the entire country? What if, in giving freedom to the slave, universal freedom in the country should be proclaimed, and "our swords be turned into plowshares and our spears into pruning hooks," and every man forgive and forget the past, what a Jubilee we would have!

Such a course would unite the North and South in indissoluble bonds. Such a course would heal all jars—cure all divisions—cause the flow of blood to cease, and make us once more a happy nation. May Heaven hasten it!

Negro Testimony.

We cannot doubt, when the people of North Carolina come to ponder carefully the question of negro testimony in all its bearings, they will readily acquiesce in its propriety. When they come to view it as a necessary right growing out of their new relation—when they come to understand that it is claimed by the President as a means of quieting the agitations of the country, and a condition in the terms of surrender they can but yield it.

It is important that they have information upon the subject. The speech of R. Y. McAden, Esq. of Alamance on the bill, which we publish to-day on our first page, will contribute to that information. His position that it is due to the President as an evidence of our endorsement of his policy, is correctly taken. It is equally true, that until this question is settled in favor of the negro, the Freedman's Bureau will be continued in some form.

Judging from what we have seen of the orders of Gen Howard and of Col. Whittlesy in carrying out this institution, we feel bound to say, that we have not seen sufficient ground to speak of the practical operations of the Bureau in the strong language of condemnation which some employ. Yet the idea prevails among the people that it is an instrument of wrong and injustice to the whites, which always discriminates in favor of the black race; hence the necessity of adopting such a policy, as will as soon as possible obviate the necessity for its existence.

Whatever is needed to give moral force to the position of President Johnson, and whatever is necessary to do justice to the negro, we are in favor of, and the sooner our people come quietly to that point, the better.

"Open the Prison Doors."

The effects of President Johnson's late veto message and speech are producing a powerful influence. We are highly gratified at the effect on our cotemporary, the Progress. Who would have thought a month ago, that our neighbor was tired of blood? Hear what he says in allusion to the President's issuing a proclamation declaring the war at an end. He says let him go further and proclaim the loosing of all prisoners for political offences. Amen, we say, but who would have thought it? Hear him:

"We think the sooner this is done the better, and trust the proclamation will be issued speedily. But we would have the President to go a step further. There has been blood enough shed in this war, there has been enough of death and suffering, and we cannot think that any good man or true patriot desires that another life should be taken on account of any political offence connected with the war. No amount of coercion, oppression, martial law and military rule will make the Southern people more loyal or increase their affection for the Union; but, on the contrary, these inflictions will have an opposite effect."

State Credit.

It appears to us that our people and the Legislature are not sufficiently awake to the importance of maintaining the credit of the State. Men talk of the creditors of the State waiting until the State is ready to pay. Do they act thus with their creditors when they see them making no efforts to get ready to pay. All that the creditors of the State now ask, is that the Legislature show a disposition to pay—that they make arrangements to fund the interest falling due for the last five years on its bonds. This delay is sapping confidence in the disposition of the State to pay.

"Catawba," a sensible writer in this day's issue presents sound views, and we trust they will be considered and heeded.

Rev. James Sinclair.

In announcing the other day that the above individual had been summoned to Washington to testify before the reconstruction committee, we inadvertently named him Rev. J. C. Sinclair. The latter gentleman is worthy of all confidence and is an excellent man.

The Salem Press says, that the people of Davidson, Guilford, Stokes, Surry, Yadkin and Forsythe are much dissatisfied at the course of the Legislature in regard to the Banks. It says that they do not endorse the doctrines of the report on Banks and Banking, but the report of Hon. W. N. H. Smith on the Banks of the State. These people are decided for sustaining the credit of the State.

For the Sentinel.

MESSRS EDITORS:—Being a citizen of North Carolina, "a native to the manor born," I trust you will not consider me presumptuous, and will allow space in your excellent paper for the expression of a few thoughts on the condition of the country and the remedial measures suggested for relief. That, what may be said in this article, may not be misconstrued, I will remark, that the writer is the owner of no obligations of the State in any form. He is not, nor never has been an aspirant for political position, and therefore, knows himself to be uninfluenced by cupidity or selfishness. The opinions arrived at, are the result of mature reflection, had in the midst of the surging billows of revolution. The ship of State is in the midst of breakers. The perils of the hour demand the services of not only the crew, but every passenger on board. Every man to the rescue, and let him bring all the ability and resources with which God has endowed him. This is no time for relaxation, no time for political wrangling and party discord. Harmonious, united action, "a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull altogether," and all may yet be well. We must discard the fallacy that all is lost worth living for. It is not so. There is, thank Heaven, "some life in the old land yet." It cannot be denied that grave errors in legislation have been committed; but to err is human, to acknowledge and abandon error is the part of wisdom. By boldly and manfully meeting and grappling with error, it may be overcome. We must reverse such laws, as all acknowledge to have had a damaging effect. But before going into detail, Mr. Editor, allow me to repeat the remark, that we are not yet quite ruined, which may be proven by remembering that our condition might be much worse.

By God's good providence, we still have our lands, our genial climate, our social organizations, our cultivated interest and our pride of character unimpaired. Who will venture to say, that North Carolinians have lost that sense of justice, so long one of their prominent characteristics, which gave the old North State her hitherto proud position among her sisters of this republic? The commencement of her movement in the path of rectitude, dates back to the days of the revolution, and in reviewing her history, we find the names of her heroes and statesmen whose memories we cherish with veneration; by whose devotion and patriotism we have our good name, and our bosoms have been made to glow with emotions of pleasure on many occasions, when allusion in other communities have been made to their precious traits of character.

Has it come to this, that North Carolina has so degenerated that she is to repudiate an honest debt, whereby a lasting stigma shall attach to her, involving the ruin of every man and woman to whom she has given birth? Will the guardians of her honor and her interests ignore the teachings of eternal wisdom that "a good name is better than precious ointment." "By all the sacred memories of the past, and by all the inspiring hopes of the future," this Legislature is called upon to discard all action tending in that direction, and will adopt such measures as will place our beloved State above suspicion.

But what can be done? The land has been blackened by the fires of war, and desolation as far as it has gone has done pretty thorough work. What is it asked can be done? We must sirs, declare to the world first of all that that our fathers were honest, so we intend to be, and that we will pay and satisfy in full all our obligations, and that repudiation is no part of our policy. That's the first thing, and then our legislation should be reversed as far as possible so as to allow honest creditors to enforce their just claims, by the repeal or decided modification of the stay laws. This is a theme of much interest, and arguments and reasons might be given in extenso, to show the unjust workings of a law that interposes obstacles in the way of the enforcement of contracts. Such laws are manifestly incompatible with prosperity and domestic quiet. And then sirs, you must so direct your legislation in repealing or modifying your usury laws as shall enable the needy to approach capitalists and borrow their money without imposing upon the lender penalities and forfeitures: and then sir, you will be fully prepared to inaugurate a financial scheme that will tell at once upon the country in promoting its good. Such a scheme for instance, as is indicated by your theory of a mutual loan association, by which you would have no difficulty I think in raising any amount of money required for a National Bank. Such measures would open up to the apprehension of the people a way of assistance that would operate like a charm. They would inspire hope, nerve to industry, stimulate enterprize and do good in every way.

So impressed am I that such results would follow, that I should rejoice to see the effort made. Among all the appliances of civilization, there is nothing so potent in giving tone and efficiency to muscle, as well regulated banks. On the subject of banks, one of the most eminent financial writers of modern times says: "A bank is simply a plan of organizing capital by which the full benefits of it are secured.—The separate means of individuals are united together, and a larger sum thus constituted, which is hired out on interest to those who need it. This combination, and the manner of its use, may be compared to a dam across a valley, and the accumulation in one body of the water of the separate springs, which o herwise would be of little service; but being united they form a propelling power for extensive machinery."

Any one who has traveled among our country villages out of the immediate influence of cities, has occasionally been struck by the neglect of natural advantages, the lack of energy, the rudeness of life and character, and the almost savage features of common people. But on visiting the same place after a lapse of a few years, he has seen a total change: A larger population, a better class of buildings, an air of thrifty growth and a manifest increase of comfort.

The old lethargy has disappeared; a new life has been infused into every thing; even the countenances of the people are softened, a less brutal and more intelligent spirit beams from their eyes. A bank has been the starting point of this new career, the mill-dam has been built across the little streams and the social machinery is brought into play." This legislature Mr. Editor is one of the most important in the history of the State. If these gentlemen should adjourn and turn their backs upon the capitol without inaugurating some financial plan for the relief of the State Tressury and the people, they cannot expect to be greeted by their suffering constituents with the plaudit awarded to good and faithful servants; especially if the people could understand the practicability of such legislation as might have given relief.

CATAWBA.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

SENATE.

(EVENING SESSION.)

February 26.

The Senate was called to order at half past seven o'clock, P. M.

The discussion of the bill providing for the payment of the interest on the State debt, was resumed. Mr. McKoy continued his remarks in support of the bill. He had always been opposed to every species of repudiation, and hence had opposed the repudiation of the State war debt. He alluded to the manner in which that was effected. He was a supporter of the President and his policy, and in voting against repudiation he had not been inconsistent. He animadverted upon the course of the so-called Union men and administered a sharp rebuke.

Mr. Cowles was opposed to the bill at present. He did not see how it was possible to tax the people to meet any part of the State debt at present. When the Union was fully restored and the condition of the people improved, he should favor then proper steps upon the subject.

Mr. Carter was in favor of the bill. He would sustain the credit of the State. He however must be permitted to notice the remarks of the gentleman from Sampson. He should put the responsibility of the continuance of the war upon the right shoulders. Those who resisted the demands of the people for peace, must bear the responsibility and he should put it on them.

Mr. Cowles moved to lay the bill on the table and called for the yeas and nays on its second reading. Not agreed to.

The question recurring on its passage, Mr. Wiggins arose to explain the history of the bill.

Mr. Jones, of Columbus, also gave a history of the bill.

Mr. Whitford thought the Senate was sufficiently enlightened upon the subject to act understandingly.

Mr. Wilson discussed the bill upon its merits, showing the necessity for prompt action and the ability of the State at a proper time to meet her obligations.

Mr. Cowles moved to amend the bill, providing that it should not go into effect until 1867. The hour having arrived for adjournment no action was taken upon the question, and the Senate adjourned till 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

SENATE.

MONDAY, Feb. 19th.

The Senate was called to order at 10 o'clock A. M.

Mr. Arendell from the Committee on Corporations to whom was referred the bill to extend the charter of the Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford Railroad reported back the same, recommending its passage.

Mr. McLean introduced a bill to incorporate the Fayetteville Iron Works, referred to the Committee on Corporations.

Mr. Wilson introduced a resolution instructing the committee on the Lunatic Asylum, to inquire into the propriety of providing by law, that all dues to the Asylum shall be paid into the Treasury of the State, and also into the propriety of providing by law, that the county courts of the respective counties, shall pay a tax for the support of the indigent Insane from such, during the year 1865. Adopted.

Message from the House transmitting the following bills and additional names of Justices of the Peace. A bill to enable the Bank of the State to close their business. Bill to legalize the acts of the County Courts of Gaston and Lincoln Counties. Additional names for Justices of the Peace for the counties of Yadkin, Sampson, Stokes, Jones and Pitt.

On motion of Mr. Cowles the list from Yadkin County was laid on the table. (He stated they were the identical names he had objected to before, and that they were not suitable men for that position.)

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The bill to provide for the payment of the interest due by the State, being still under consideration, Mr. Cowles' amendment proposing to strike out the year 1866 and insert the year 1867, came up, which after discussion was rejected.

Mr. Cowles moved further to amend, providing that the said bonds shall not be exempt from taxation.

Mr. Jones of Columbus, opposed the amendment, believing that its object was to clog the bill and prevent its passage.

Mr. Bynum was opposed to the entire bill, but if it should pass, an amendment similar to this should be adopted, as he was opposed to exempting any property from taxation.

Mr. Wilson opposed the amendment. He held that to tax the bonds was a violation of the pledge of the General Assembly given to the bondholders, and that the amendment could not be adopted without violating the faith of the State.

Mr. Jones of Columbus, in order to test the question called for the yeas and nays, and the amendment was rejected by the casting vote of the Speaker.

Mr. Ferebee was glad to see the Senator from Columbus now opposed to repudiation. At another time and in another body, he and the Senator had differed widely. His voice was then raised for repudiation, but now he was glad to see him coming forward to maintain the credit and honor of the State. For himself, he had stood up against repudiation when the interests of the people of this State were more dearly and largely involved than at present, and now he would act consistently and still raise his voice against repudiation. He should maintain the honor and credit of the State at all times, though he did not like entirely the present bill.

Mr. Jones, of Columbus replied, that he was proud of his vote in the Convention. He had voted for the repudiation of the State war debt, as a part of the reconstruction policy of President Johnson. In this he was consistent, and now he was in favor of maintaining the credit of the State, in a matter of debt about which there could be no question of right, and in accordance with the ordinance of the Convention.

Mr. Gash said there seemed to be a family quarrel which the gentlemen had better retire and settle. With his present lights he should vote for the bill as amended, if he could get nothing better.

Mr. Wiggins was glad to see his friend Mr. Gash coming forward to the support of this bill. He hoped that he was now ready to vote for Mr. Berry's bill also, which he opposed some days ago.

Mr. Bynum was opposed to the principle of the bill. The State was only bound to pay principal and simple interest, but this bill compounded the interest, and yet made no provision to reduce the debt by taxation. When our people are ready and able to pay, he was ready to go as far as the next in providing to meet the debt; but until this state of things arose, he could not vote for the increase of the debt. No other State had passed such a bill. It will only benefit the bond-holders who can wait until the State is able to pay. He was no repudiator, but he was opposed to making additional obligations to pay, when he saw no present prospect of raising the money to meet them.

Mr. Hall advocated the passage of the bill.—He stated that Tennessee and Virginia had passed similar bills. He believed the difficulties of gentlemen about providing for the payment of the debt, were not well founded. The profits of the State from her works of internal improvements alone, would soon enable her to meet her obligations.

Mr. Wiggins hoped after so long a discussion the Senate was ready for the vote. He preferred Mr. Berry's bill, but would vote for this on the second reading.

Mr. Bynum offered an amendment, providing for the taxing of the interest accruing, as in cases of all other property.

Mr. Wilson opposed the amendment in a warm and forcible speech.

Mr. Carter did not intend to engage in the discussion, but the proposition to amend after the principle assumed had been so fully met, forced upon him the necessity. The positions of the Senator from Lincolnton, have been fully refuted by the Senators from New Hanover and Mecklenburg. He believed the State amply able to meet her obligations. It had been shown that the revenue from internal improvements would greatly aid her in this, and he should oppose any measure which would at all weaken the credit and faith of the State.

(Our limits forbid a further notice of the debate.)

The question arising on the amendment of Mr. Bynum, Mr. Cowles called the ayes and nays, and the vote being, ayes 18, nays 19, the Speaker voted in the affirmative and it was adopted.

Mr. Hall moved to amend the amendment providing that the tax on the new bonds shall not exceed the interest, which was adopted.

The question arising on the passage of the bill, Mr. Carter called the ayes and nays, when it stood ayes 30, nays 8.

The special order for to-day being the penitentiary bill, Mr. Gash called it up, but the hour of adjournment having arrived, the Speaker pronounced the Senate adjourned to 7½ o'clock, P. M.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

TUESDAY, Feb. 27.

The House was called to order at ten o'clock, A. M.

The Journal of yesterday was read and approved.

Mr. Nicks presented a number of nominations for appointment as Justices of the Peace for Yadkin county, accompanied by a petition signed by 155 voters of said county, praying their appointment. Among the nominations was the name of H. C. Felts, whom the House on a former occasion refused to appoint.

Mr. Waugh said that a few days since, when a list of nominations of magistrates for Yadkin county came in from the Senate, the gentleman from Yadkin (Mr. Nicks) had opposed their appointment for the reason that a sufficient number had already been appointed. He moved that the nominations be laid on the table, but withdrew the motion temporarily.

Mr. Nicks said that a number of the newly appointed magistrates for his county had failed to qualify, and hence the necessity for appointing others. Mr. Felts whose character had been assailed by the gentleman from Surry, was a high minded, honorable man. He better knew the wishes of his constituents than the gentleman from Surry did. He did not interfere with the concerns of other counties, and deprecated such intermeddling by others.

Mr. Waugh renewed the motion to lay the nominations on the table. Not agreed to.

The nominations were then approved and sent to the Senate.

BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED.

An engrossed bill to amend the charter of the town of Salisbury, passed its several readings under a suspension of the rules.

At 18 o'clock, M., the revenue bill was taken up for consideration.

Mr. Harper, from the finance committee, explained in detail the provisions of the bill and the considerations which had influenced the recommendations of the committee. (The bill proposes to raise $300,000 to meet the current expenses of the State until October 1866. It is proposed to raise by a tax of ten cents on each hundred dollars value of real estate to raise $110,000—to raise $45,000 on taxable white polls and $20,000 on black polls—the residue to be levied on other subjects of taxation.)

The bill was partially read by sections and amended in sundry particulars.

Pending its considerations the House adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

[Mr. Harrison voted in the affirmative on yesterday, on Mr. McNair's motion to strike out the 9th section of the bill concerning negroes and persons of color or of mixed blood. The omission of his name in the Standard was a typographical error.]

Mr. Seward telegraphed to the President, from New York, his cordial endorsement of his recent speech.

A CARD.

THE Philanthropic Society of the University of North Carolina is anxious to have a record of the names, and a list as is possible, of the histories also, of its members who were slain in the recent war. They may be counted by hundreds, and their blood has stained the field of every battle from Manassas to Bentonsville. Of these brave and noble men, who freely offered their young lives for the cause of their country, there should be some enduring memorial. We owe it to them and we owe it no less to ourselves, to those who shall come after us. Their eminent patriotism should not be forgotten, nor should the sublimness of their example be lost to their successors.

The Society has thought that its archives are a most fit place for deposit for such memorials, where they are sure to meet with reverent care and are most likely to be long preserved, and to be of the highest service to our young men hereafter.

It has, therefore, directed this appeal to be made to the kindred and friends of those, its members, who perished in the late war, and to all who may be able to render such service, that they would send to the Society such memoranda as may be had of their lives and of their death. It desires to form a complete catalogue of those whom it has lost, with biographical sketches, at full as may be, of them all; or, in default of such sketches, accounts of separate acts of virtue and of daring.

Besides such memoranda, it will gladly receive any personal memorials of its deceased members, their autographs, accoutrements they wore, &c., &c. All will be duly arranged here, and carefully preserved in honor of the dead and to the use of the living for many generations; and it is believed that no where else will the memory of our departed brethren be cherished longer, or with more peculiar veneration. And now that the late war is over; now that the last four years of bloodshed, destitution and distress have passed; now that we have resumed our former connection with the Federal government in true faith and with honest intentions, the incidents and acts connected with the war, and memory of the people for whom they were performed. The Society, believing that in a country who every new generation independence and equality, acts of heroism should be perpetuated, views this fact with the deepest concern. It has, therefore, appointed its Library to be a receptacle for trophies commemorative of the war, and requests contributions from her friends throughout the State. It should be a source of congratulation to the authors that their illustrious actions are not forgotten, and of pride to the country, that she is worthy of them; and equally the duty of both that they be fitly honored.

All communications made, and articles sent, should be directed to "Philanthropic Society, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill," with the name of the donor, and an appropriate description accompanying each article. All expenses connected with the sending of such articles will be defrayed by the Society.

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Persons desiring Evergreens will do well to call at the Carter House this morning.

Mrs. Evans gives notice of qualification as Administratrix of H. L. Evans, deceased.

Rev. N. B. Cobb proposes to give lessons in the useful art of Phonography. Mr. Cobb is a most competent instructor, and will give entire satisfaction to all who may patronize him.

Messrs. Ellicott & Jones, No. 3 Spear's Wharf, Baltimore, advertise a most valuable article of Concentrated Lye.

Maxon & Strong announce cheap and attractive Spring Importations.

W. H. Boner & Co., 1102 Chesnut St., are dealers in American and Foreign Music, Musical Instruments &c. We learn that their establishment is in all respects a most superior one.—The Mr. Boner of the firm is a native North Carolinian, and son of the estimable Senator from Stokes and Forsyth in our State Legislature.

PRAISEWORTHY OBJECT.—We invite attention to the Card of a Committee of the Philanthropic Society of our University in another column. The object which the young gentlemen composing the Society have in view is highly meritorious, as a tribute of affection to the memory of their brethren who sacrificed their lives in the recent war. It speaks well for the living, and will result, we doubt not, in a proper memorial of the gallant dead.

Salem.

On Sunday the 18th, the first Centenary celebration of Salem, was observed by the people of that place and visiting people from abroad. The programme was highly interesting. Rev. E. A. De Schweinitz read the historical account of the place, which we will publish as soon as we get space.

THE LECTURE.—Remember that Maj. Geo McKnight, "Asa Hartz," will deliver a lecture to-night in the Commons Hall. The subject "Babies." All, both Ladies and Gentlemen are assured, that the subject will be so handled as to gratify all, without wounding the delicacy of the most fastidious. The humor of the Lecturer will have full play and a good text.

Corporation Proceedings.

The Board met this evening pursuant to adjournment.

Present—Col. Wm. H. Harrison, Mayor.

Messrs. C. B. Root, C. M. Farriss, Dr. W. H. McKee, A. Sorrell, P. Overby, H. Mahler, R. W. Haywood, D. L. Royster and N. S. Harp, Commissioners.

Dr. McKee, Chairman of Committee on the Stock of the City, in the Chatham Railroad Co., made a report which was received and read as follows:

RALEIGH, Feb. 26, 1866.

The Committee on the subscriptions to the Chatham Railroad, report, that they have examined the subscription book of the road, and find that the subscription of the City of Raleigh is the first on the list, for fifty thousand dollars, and that amount was paid on the first of January, 1868, in the bonds of the city. These bonds are held by the State in exhange for that amount of the State bonds issued to the city and paid over to the road.—Thirty-two thousand dollars of the State bonds are still held by the road. Two individual subscriptions for one hundred dollars each, were paid off in cotton yarn, one at $50 per bunch, and the other at $35. The North Carolina and the Gaston Road, each subscribed two hundred thousand dollars. The North Carolina Railroad paid their subscriptions in Confederate bonds, and the Gaston Road and the personal subscription were paid in Confederate money, amounting in all to the rise of $900,000.

At the time the city exchanged her bonds with the State and paid her subscription, her bonds were considered at par. The Company now say that the road is only valued at $200,000, and they have scaled the subscription to that valuation—which reduces the city's subscription to one hundred and eleven shares, instead of five hundred; and this was done against the consent of the city.

On examining the charter of the road the Committee can find no law allowing such a scale—but they think by the unanimous consent of a company, such a scale may be made. As the representatives of the city, the Committee cannot consent to this discrimination on the part of the stockholders against the corporation, and recommend that the representatives on the part of the city at the next meeting of the stockholders be instructed to claim the full amount of subscription, and in case of any scaling, that the stock-holders be requested to reduce their subscription to a gold valuation, before such scaling shall be allowed. There is nothing unjust in this proposition. The individual subscribers who paid their subscription in cotton yarns at $35 and $50 per. bunch, cannot think that the city will consent to pay $100 in good money for its equivalent—the true value when reduced being only one dollar per bunch.

The committee respectfully recommend that the Mayor be appointed to represent the city in the next meeting of the stockholders, and that he be instructed to claim the full amount of subscription at the valuation it was worth at the time the subscription was paid, and in case of any scale being agreed upon, that no other be consented to but a fair valuation in gold at the time of payment of each subscription as a basis of the scale.

W. H. McKEE,
C. M. FARRISS,
R. W. HAYWOOD.

On motion of Mr. Farriss, C. B. Root, Esq., was appointed alternate.

A charge was brought against Mr. Eatman, one of the city night watch, for being intoxicated while on duty. He was on motion excused.

On motion of Mr. Farriss, Mr. Washington Overby, one of the city night watch who was discharged at last meeting was reinstated.

Dr. McKee, chairman of committee on the revisal of the City Charter, made a report, which was read, and on motion of Mr. Root, ordered to be submitted to Maj. W. D. Jones, Senator from Wake, and request him to have it passed by the Legislature.

On motion of Mr. Mahler, ordered that Lenn H. Adams be required to vacate the engine house used by him as a store house, since the recent fire on Market square.

On motion, the Board adjourned.

Stay Law—Usury.

MR. EDITOR:—I notice, in a recent interesting discussion in the Senate of our General Assembly, that one objection to a stay law was, that it prevented the possibility of obtaining the loan of money, because no suit could be brought for the recovery, in any reasonable time, for the money loaned. This difficulty, it was very forcibly suggested, was much enhanced from the fact that our usury laws forbid such a rate of interest, as would invite capital to the State for investment. In both of these objections there is great force; but yet the difficulty is fortunately of such a character as may, in both instances be easily removed. As regards the first objection, it would seem very clear, that important and, indeed, indispensible as a stay law is for the protection of our people, in their present unfortunate and distressed condition, yet surely no law should be passed to operate as a stay on future contracts, but should apply exclusively to the past, to such, for instance, as existed at the close of the war. With a law so framed, the objection referred to would be, at once, obviated, or, rather, would not exist; and, to put the matter beyond doubt, and to relieve all possible apprehension of any future stay law operating upon contracts hereafter made, let the present General Assembly expressly provide against it by declaring, as to debts hereafter contracted, all the laws in force on the 1st of May, 1861, for the collection of debts, shall continue in force; as to those hereafter contracted, and that the same shall not be delayed by any change of the law, or by altering the rules of pleading, or in any other way. Then it would be impossible to frame any law to delay the collection of such debts without it being clearly unconstitutional. Although a future General Assembly might alter such a law, it could not, by doing so, impair any contract for the payment of money made prior to such act, because all the remedies existing at the time of the contract, would constitute a main consideration of it, and would therefore be regarded as part of the contract itself. And if, in addition to this, the present General Assembly would rise superior to old prejudices, and either abolish all usury laws, or so alter them as to allow such a rate of interest, as to invite capital to the State, these two laws, to wit: a complete remedy for the collection of the debt with the assurance that such remedy should not be impaired or interfered with, and the opportunity of loaning money for such a rate of interest as is allowed in most, if not all commercial counties, there would scarcely be any longer difficulty in borrowing money enough to meet cases of the greatest emergency. Without intending to repeat here what has been so forcibly said by members of this present Legislature, I will simply ask those in favor of retaining the present usury laws, if they can possibly show that they have done any good? On the contrary, have they not been productive of unmixed evil? What is the experience of every one? Is it not that these laws have, ever since they existed, been evaded, and is not the danger the usurer runs always artfully appealed to by him, as an argument for exacting more? Now in consequence of these laws, most men will not loan money at all, because the lawful interest (6 per cent.) is less they can make on their money in some other way. The consequence is, the number of lenders is so small, that all competition is excluded, and the result is, that in almost every case, where our people have to borrow, they pay from 20 to 30 per cent., whereas, if they were allowed to contract for 10 or 12 per cent., competition would be invited, money would become plenty, and thus a vast amount of property would be saved from sacrifice. People, then, instead of having to sell all, or part of their lands, for the want of means to cultivate them, would go to work to improve them, increase their means and pay their debts, while, with the present usury laws in force, they can't borrow money at all; and the result is, their enterprise is paralized and will continue to be paralized. Permit me, Mr. Editor, to make another remark with reference to a stay law. To continue the present one in force, or enact a new one like it, will not do. Putting off pay day indefinitely, without providing for paying any part of the debt, only increases the difficulty in the end, so that when pay day does come, there will be such an accumulation of interest added to the principal as will be absolutely overwhelming. But let the Legislature provide for the payment of the principal and interest by instalments or one fourth or one sixth, or something like it, and the people will, at once, feel the necessity, and have the inducement for effort to meet their liabilities. "It is time," as I heard a very distinguished man remark, speaking on this subject, "for the people to learn to pay something," for then they will begin to stir themselves according to their ability.

There is another consideration, not, I think, without force, if payment is again put off from year to year, no part of the principal is collectable, the moral tendency will be decidedly bad, and, after a while, it may become popular, and, in all probability, will be regarded as inevitable, to postpone pay day indefinitely. In this view, it seems to me, that acts of Assembly, for altering the modes of pleading, &c., without making provision for paying debts gradually, (very slowly I admit it ought to be,) but still let there be a very gradual payment, and I think such a law, in 99 cases out of 100, would be entirely acceptable to creditors, while it really will be best for the debtors also.

Of one thing I am perfectly certain, some stay law must be passed, for to form creditors loose under existing circumstances, would ruin the whole country, and would be followed by scenes of violence from which the most terrible consequences would follow. It is absolutely impossible that our people can pay their debts (except a very small part, at least) in a short time, and if forced to do so, sooner than see their wives and dear little ones turned out of doors, "houseless and homeless" to starve, they will resist, and there will be so large a number in the same condition, that they will make common cause, and the Sheriff, the creditor and all will be put at defiance, and the result will be that the creditor will go unpaid and the people will become accordingly demoralized, and the next move will be wide spread repudiation. Desiring our good old State to be relieved from such a state of things, and wishing to contribute my mite to prevent it, is the inducement for offer to the readers of your able and valuable paper, and particularly, to the members of the General Assembly, (and I hope they will regard them not unworthy of their consideration) these suggestions.

JUSTICE.

Truth is an eternal element. It is an essence of divinity. Man must grasp this essence; he must press it to his soul; it must be his spiritual life, and rule all his thoughts and actions. Truth must be with him. Only in this way can he be natural. Only so can he resemble the redeemer. To be unlike god is to be unnatural. 'Tis true opposites exist. Light has its shade, cold is opposed to heat, hate is antagonistic to love. Truth itself is opposed to error. But one path, genuine course remains for him to follow. It is the path of right, of truth, of justice, of love, and of unswering fidelity to God. Only thus can the soul harmonize with the purposes of the Creator. Moral purity can alone qualify us for this mission.

Stay Law—Usury.

We ask attention to the sensible views of "Justice" in to-day's issue. Impressed as he is, with the bad condition of our people, he favors a stay-law, which we are sure he would not otherwise do. All stay-laws however framed, as well as usury laws, at any time, operate injuriously upon credit, and more or less trammel the operations of business. Yet there may be times, and it may be at present, when a properly framed stay-law may be needed.

Trial of Maj. Gee.

This trial is progressing slowly. Only three or four witnesses have yet been on the stand.—The course of investigation adopted, will make the trial consume a month, day and night sessions. As far as we have been able to learn, nothing has yet been elicited which implicates Maj. Gee seriously. Several important facts have been brought out strongly in his favor.

GENERAL ITEMS.

The High Court of Errors of Mississippi has decided unanimously, that the stay law is unconstitutional. This will be the fate of any stay law perhaps, that can be passed.

At a meeting in New York where Gen. Jno. A. Dix presided, a committee was appointed to proceed to Washington to confer with the President, as to the best means of sustaining the great measures of his administration.

The New York Times says that the age of Bastiles and guillotines, has passed, but there is a despotism in Congress as infatuated as that which caused France to weep tears of blood.

The Petersburg Index complains heavily of the freights charged by the Petersburg and Weldon Rail Road.

Gov. Cox, of Ohio, is on a visit at Washington city, and it is said he comes out squarely in favor of the President's policy.

We regret to learn that John Campbell, Esq., of Weldon, died on Friday last. He was a useful citizen and a good man.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE N. Y. NEWS.]

Washington, Feb. 23.—It is understood that the President's policy as indicated in his speech yesterday, will be carried out by him with promptness and energy; and that he will use all his constitutional powers to secure the speedy admission to their seats in Congress of all the members duly elected from the Southern States.

The session of the Cabinet to-day was short, and no business of importance was transacted. It is evident that there is no harmony in the body as at present constituted. It is stated that the President has addressed a note to three of the members, stating that their resignations will be acceptable at any time.

The Cure is Thorough.

Kenneth Haynes, Esq. Clerk of Columbus County Court, writes [April 2, 1853]: "During the latter part of the year 1852 I was severely afflicted with disease of the liver, and many nights while in bed the pain would become so excruciating that I was compelled to get out of the bed and sit up until the pain would subside. I procured a few boxes of the Southern Hepatic Pills, and the first dose gave me great relief. I continued to use the Pills for two weeks, and have not suffered from liver disease since. I have recommended them accordingly, and several persons are in want of them."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,

Are the most perfect purgative which we are able to produce, or which we think has ever yet been made by any body. Their effects have abundantly shown to the community how much they excel the ordinary medicines in use. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart a healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of everybody, but also formidable and dangerous diseases. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take, and, being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief, were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character, as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliabilities of our remedies, while others have sent us the assurance of their conviction that our Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of our afflicted, suffering fellow men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis our American Almanac, containing directions for the use, and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from foul stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid inaction of the bowels and pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Diseases which require an evacuant medicine. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability. Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with other preparations which they make more profit on. Demand AYER'S and take no other. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.

LIFE INSURANCE NOTICE

THE old and well established

Ætna Company, of Hartford,

Offers superior inducements to all who wish to provide for family or friends.

All losses are promptly paid. No case of litigation has ever occurred with this Company. With assets of $3,000,000, it offers to receive one half of the premium in a note and half in cash, and, after the second year, to credit each customer with the dividends of the Company, which are now 50 per cent. With a small outlay, $500 or $1,000 or $2,000, may be secured to the family after their earthly providers are taken away. What father or husband would not feel the glad on his dying couch, that he had availed himself of every proper means to place those nearest and dearest to him, above the pinchings of want, and a life of dependence upon friends or charity? 8,819 policies have been issued from the office ending Jan. 15 1866. The total income for the year 1865 was $1,681,539 57, total disbursements $527,805 21, leaving a balance to surplus fund of $1,155,244 36.

In Raleigh, a large number have liberally responded and promptly acted in this matter; yet many delay, and may wait until it is too late. A man in this city lately left his place of business for his evening meal, well and healthy, but never reached that home except as he was carried there to die. Had that man taken the advice of the Agent, he might have left $5000 to minister to the necessities of a sorrowing family. Delays are dangerous procrastination destructive. But one says, "If I only had confidence in the Company that it would pay, I would insure." Well, it never has failed to pay, and to-day is more responsible than ever before. It is patronized by some of the most sagacious minds in the land—men competent to detect and expose any deception if it existed.

BAUGH'S RAW BONE

Super-Phosphate of Lime.

BAUGH & SON'S,

MANUFACTURERS AND PROPRIETORS,

Store No. 20 South Delaware Avenue,

PHILADELPHIA.

THIS valuable Manure has been before the agricultural public, under one name for twelve years past, and its character for vigor of action and permanence in effect is well established. Before the war, it was introduced, to some extent, in the Southern States, and was found to be highly adapted to Cotton, Tobacco, and all Crops.

In its action, it is as quick as Peruvian Guano, while it does not leave the land in an exhausted state, but on the other hand permanently improves it. This has been fully proven by years of trial.

PROSPECTUS

OLD NORTH STATE.

"The Old North State Forever."

THE undersigned will commence the publication of a Daily and Weekly Newspaper, bearing the above title, in the city of Salisbury about the 10th of March next.

The Old North State will be, under our control, a firm and decided Union paper. But while it will be firm and decided in its support of the Union, and of all just and necessary measures tending to its complete restoration, it will yet be liberal and conservative. It will oppose radicalism from whatever quarter it may come. Confiding in the loyal intentions of the great body of the people of North Carolina, it will endeavor to soothe the asperities of the past by promoting among them a spirit of reconciliation and harmony.

Rejecting the exploded dogma of paramount State sovereignty, it will cheerfully support the National government in the exercise of every power necessary to the maintenance of its rightful authority, while it will ever contend against any encroachments upon the reserved rights of the States.

It will discuss all the questions of the day, but in doing this it will seek to avoid everything like partizan bitterness or personal vituperation. It will also strive to avoid that detestable practice, so common among politicians, of pandering to the passions and appealing to the prejudices of the multitude in order to accomplish partizan ends. It will endeavor to enlighten and direct aright public sentiment, by disseminating correct information, and by arguments addressed to the understanding—in short it will endeavor to erect a high standard of political morality.

Its columns will be open for Political, Miscellaneous, Literary and Agricultural articles especially, and to the advertising public.

The Old North State will be printed on new type on the following

THE LOYALIST.

THE undersigned propose to publish in Louisburg, North Carolina, a newspaper under the above denomination. The LOYALIST, as its name imports, will yield a firm, uniform, and fearless support to the Constitution of the United States, and all laws enacted in pursuance of that great instrument. To the decisions of the Supreme Court of the nation, in such questions as originate in the interpretation or application of the principles involved in our federal jurisprudence of policy, the Loyalist will accord its unqualified acquiescence, as to the will of the American people, duly expressed through the only legitimate, determinate and sufficient medium. Its general politics will be those so long and so thoroughly taught by the patriotism, the eloquence, and the wisdom of Clay, and his departed compeers, and so lamentably vindicated by the present melancholy and helpless condition of the communities so recently arrayed in arms against the integrity and harmony of our national union.

The Loyalist would make the institutions and independence, the material and moral dignity of the nation, as enduring and as brilliant as the stars whose images adorn the field and the folds of its flag. The Loyalist will also dedicate its energies and exert its abilities to ascertain and cherish the interests, as well as to develope the immense resources of North Carolina. To the cause of education, the general diffusion of knowledge, the elevation of the masses, and the religious culture of all within its influence, it will be a consistent and inflexible friend. Its editorial department will be conducted by gentlemen whose names will be announced in due time.

The LOYALIST will be issued weekly, carefully printed, of the size of the Raleigh "Daily Sentinel," and furnished to patrons at $3 00 per annum, payable on delivery of the first number. Subscriptions and communications respectfully solicited.
